Conflict Resolution: Turning Friction into Positive Change

Conflict and disputes are a natural part of daily life as there are not sufficient resources. Conflict arises over money, power, possessions, time, and other things.

Some conflict and friction are difficult to be avoided. As this is where learning, creativity, and acquaintance occur. It is not that conflict occurs that is the issue, it is how it is handled.

What is A Commercial Negotiation?

Commercial negotiation is a course of communication integrated into one strategy and seen as a holistic process.

Commercial negotiation aims at reaching a commercial understanding that will end up with signing an agreement. This strategy involves the conflict of the negotiators' expected outcome, stakes, standings and points of view.

The Elements of Negotiation:

1. Interests. Interests are the main drivers of negotiation. They appear when the parties express their basic needs, wants, and motives. Interests are usually invisible and unspoken, but they guide behaviours.
2. Commitments. In negotiations, a commitment represents rights, responsibilities, and duties. When reaching an agreement, each party should understand their commitment to the other party and the major stakeholders.
3. Communication. A negotiator will take part in a communication cycle with the other party or parties. Keep in mind that the Communication choices will lead things during the negotiation.
4. Being Legitimate. , Fairness, navigates parties' judgments in negotiations. So when they feel that the other party is taking advantage of them, They will be motivated to show rejection.

5. Relationships. Whether a negotiator has an enduring relationship with a peer or not. Relationship considerations become more important when both parties are interested in maintaining an ongoing connection. These considerations vary between future business and organizational reputation.
6. Alternatives and Other Options. Even as negotiators handle negotiations, they should be aware of the options away from the negotiation table. Negotiators should prepare a list of tradable to show flexibility during the negotiation.

Everything is Negotiable Meaning:

Negotiating helps individuals get what they desire. The balance of power and the negotiation situation will play a vital role. However, a negotiator with a superior set of skills as negotiators can help shift things to their interest. So we can say, if the matter is not ethical standards, then it is negotiable.

Conflict Resolution Techniques

The Thomas-Kilmann Model shows five distinct approaches to resolving conflict. These approaches are:

1. Avoiding Technique: Ignoring or bypassing the conflict, wishing it will settle itself or disperse.
2. Accommodating Technique: Focusing on solving the other party's problems or addressing the other party's needs. It is achieved at the cost of the solving own problems or needs.
3. Compromising Technique: Finding a win-win solution that will partly meet the concerns of all parties.
4. Competing Technique: Focusing on their desires at the cost of the others.
5. Collaborating Technique Coming up with a solution that meets the concerns of all parties.

The Five Components of Emotional Intelligence:

According to the American psychologist Daniel Goleman, The Five Components of Emotional Intelligence are:

1. Self awareness.
2. Self regulation.
3. Motivation.
4. Empathy.
5. The Social skills.

This persuasive negotiation skills training program is one of the best negotiation training programs. It takes the five components of Emotional Intelligence into consideration in all of its topics.
