Ref.: 103600374_54787 Date: 30 Mar - 03 Apr 2027 Location: London - Premier Inn Victoria
Fees: 7400 Euro

Course Overview:

The course is a specialized training program that provides professionals with essential tools and frameworks to understand, analyze, and respond to various forms of victimization. Based on the UN Declaration of Basic Principles of Justice for Victims of Crime and Abuse of Power and guided by key resources such as Victimology: The Essentials, Justice for Victims, and The Handbook of Restorative Justice, this course connects theory with practical applications.

Target Audience:

- Victim advocates and case managers
- Social workers and trauma counselors
- Human rights lawyers and legal advisors
- NGO coordinators and field officers
- Policy makers and transitional justice researchers

Targeted Organizational Departments:

- Legal and Justice Affairs
- Victim Services and Survivor Support Units
- Human Rights and Advocacy Programs
- Gender-Based Violence and Child Protection Units
- Crisis Response, Rehabilitation, and Transitional Justice Teams

Targeted Industries:

- Human rights NGOs and civil society organizations
- Justice and correctional institutions
- International humanitarian and development agencies

FAQ:

What specific qualifications or prerequisites are needed for participants before enrolling in the course?

There are no strict prerequisites, but participants should have a background in law, social work, psychology, humanitarian work, or public policy.

How long is each day's session, and is there a total number of hours required for the entire course?

Each day's session lasts 4-5 hours. The course spans 5 days, totaling 20-25 hours.

What's the difference between restorative justice and traditional victim services?

Traditional services often focus on compensation and punishment, while restorative justice emphasizes healing, reconciliation, and active victim participation in justice processes.

How This Course is Different from Other Victimology Courses:

This course blends academic rigor with hands-on field practice, using key texts such as Victimology: The Essentials, Justice for Victims, and The Handbook of Restorative Justice. Unlike programs that are heavily theory-based, this course emphasizes practical tools, interactive simulations, and real case studies from humanitarian contexts.

It aims not only to inform but also to equip participants with tangible skills in crime victim support training, trauma-informed advocacy, and policy development. With a special focus on international comparative frameworks, including UN and ICRC guidelines, this program prepares professionals to work across borders and in transitional justice settings.

Participants gain exposure to restorative justice models, psychological support systems, and digital victimization prevention—making this course globally relevant, impact-driven, and survivor-centered.
