Course Overview:

This leadership training course is designed to equip professionals with the critical competencies of problem-solving skills, negotiation skills training, and emotional intelligence for leaders. In today's dynamic workplaces, leaders are expected to make sound decisions, manage conflicts, and foster collaboration across teams. Leaders with high emotional intelligence are more effective at influencing outcomes, creating value in negotiations, and enhancing workplace leadership skills.

Through interactive sessions, participants will learn practical methods of conflict resolution training, decision-making for leaders, and techniques to manage both integrative and distributive negotiations. The course also highlights the strong correlation between emotional intelligence and problem-solving performance, emphasizing how EI enhances decision-making, adaptability, and resilience in high-pressure environments.

By blending academic insights with practical application, this leadership development program helps executives, managers, and team leaders master both the technical and interpersonal dimensions of leadership. Participants will leave with a deeper understanding of how to use emotional intelligence to negotiate effectively, solve complex problems, and lead with confidence in diverse workplace contexts.

How This Course is Different from Other Leadership Training Courses:

This program uniquely integrates problem-solving skills, negotiation skills training, and emotional intelligence for leaders. Unlike traditional leadership development programs, it combines academic research with real-world application, emphasizing both analytical and emotional aspects of leadership. Participants engage in simulations, case studies, and role plays that mirror workplace challenges. The course bridges the gap between soft skills training for managers and executive leadership skills, offering measurable outcomes in decision-making, conflict resolution, and workplace leadership skills.
