Ref: 609_146830 Date: 9 – 13 May 2027 Location: Toronto Fees: 12000 Euro

Overview

Contract Dispute Resolution and Mediation Practice Course is a five-day intermediate course for contract and commercial professionals who leave with a Contract Dispute Resolution Playbook. Participants apply contract dispute diagnosis, evidence preparation, issue and interest mapping, settlement option evaluation, mediation case preparation, and agreement follow-up. The course addresses unmanaged escalation by combining commercial mediation practice with structured settlement negotiation and decision controls. Agile Leaders Training Center presents contract dispute resolution as a disciplined business process.

Who Should Attend

- Contract functions responsible for interpreting obligations and managing disagreements
- Commercial teams responsible for claims, correspondence, and settlement recommendations
- Procurement functions managing supplier disputes and performance remedies
- Project teams coordinating records, stakeholders, and disputed deliverables
- Legal operations functions organizing evidence and resolution workflows

The course assumes participants handle contract records and stakeholder discussions and leaves out litigation, arbitration advocacy, formal legal opinions, and mediator certification.

Departments and Industries

The course supports departments and industries that manage contract disagreements and negotiated outcomes.

- Contracts, procurement, commercial, and legal operations
- Project management, finance, risk, and internal controls
- Construction, engineering, energy, and utilities
- Technology, telecommunications, logistics, and manufacturing
- Healthcare, facilities, real estate, and professional services

Learning Objectives

By the end of this course, participants will be able to:

- Suggested activity: draft settlement records and follow-up controls after a mediated discussion.

FAQs

Who suits the Contract Dispute Resolution and Mediation Practice Course, and what does it assume?

It suits professionals managing contract disagreements and assumes they can work with contract records, commercial correspondence, internal stakeholders, and approval processes.

How does contract dispute resolution training differ from mediator certification?

Contract dispute resolution training prepares organizational representatives to diagnose, prepare, negotiate, and participate in mediation, while mediator certification develops the neutral practitioner's professional role and assessment pathway.

What is an issue and interest map in contract dispute resolution?

An issue and interest map separates disputed questions, stated positions, underlying business needs, constraints, dependencies, and possible areas of exchange to support focused settlement discussions.

How are settlement options evaluated in commercial mediation practice?

Settlement options are evaluated against objectives, evidence, authority, cost exposure, operational feasibility, stakeholder effects, implementation conditions, and the consequences of no agreement.

What should a contract settlement record contain?

A contract settlement record should capture agreed terms, scope, responsibilities, approvals, confidentiality needs, implementation actions, deadlines, monitoring arrangements, and unresolved matters requiring further handling.

Conclusion

Participants leave with a Contract Dispute Resolution Playbook for their working environment. The playbook connects dispute diagnosis, evidence, stakeholder interests, resolution pathways, settlement authority, mediation preparation, agreement records, and follow-up controls. Teams can use it to prepare decisions consistently, reduce unmanaged escalation, and coordinate negotiated outcomes across contract, commercial, procurement, project, and legal operations functions.
