Ref: 1598_224759 Date: 10 – 14 May 2027 Location: Addis Ababa Fees: 4500 Euro

Overview

Fine Dining Service Standards and Guest Experience Training Course is a one-week intermediate course for restaurant supervisors, dining-room managers, captains, servers, hosts, and service-quality coordinators who leave with a Fine-Dining Service Standards Playbook and Guest Experience Improvement Plan. Participants practice guest reception, table preparation, menu guidance, beverage coordination, service pacing, personalization, recovery, and team handovers. Agile Leaders Training Center develops fine dining service standards capability.

Who Should Attend

- Teams responsible for guest reception, reservations, and seating
- Supervisors responsible for dining-room readiness and service flow
- Functions responsible for menu guidance and beverage coordination
- Teams responsible for personalized table service and guest care
- Leaders responsible for complaints, recovery, and team handovers

The course assumes participants work in restaurant service or supervise front-of-house teams, and it leaves culinary production, food-safety certification, and executive restaurant strategy outside its scope.

Departments and Industries

The course supports service standards across dining, hospitality, leisure, travel, and premium visitor services.

- Fine-dining restaurants and hotel dining rooms
- Resort restaurants, lounges, and private clubs
- Food and beverage service and guest relations
- Event dining, catering, and premium travel services
- Healthcare hospitality and executive dining services

Learning Objectives

By the end of this course, participants will be able to:

- Apply fine dining service standards from reception through farewell
- Use table-setting and readiness controls before service
- Build accurate menu guidance and beverage coordination
- Analyze service pacing, handovers, and guest cues
- Diagnose complaints and select suitable recovery responses
- Evaluate dining-room consistency through observation and feedback

FAQs

Who suits Fine Dining Service Standards and Guest Experience Training?

Restaurant supervisors, dining-room managers, captains, servers, hosts, and service-quality coordinators suit the course when they already support guest-facing restaurant service or supervise front-of-house teams.

How do fine dining service standards differ from general dining etiquette training?

Fine dining service standards combine etiquette with reception, table readiness, menu guidance, coordinated pacing, personalization, handovers, complaint recovery, and dining-room consistency.

What makes a fine dining sequence of service consistent?

A consistent sequence uses confirmed orders, coordinated course timing, clear kitchen handovers, attentive guest checks, accurate clearing, and controlled table resetting.

How should fine dining teams personalize guest service?

Teams personalize service by confirming preferences, reading guest cues, offering relevant choices, using flexible language, protecting privacy, and coordinating details across roles.

What belongs in a fine-dining service standards playbook?

A playbook records reception steps, table controls, menu guidance, service sequence, handovers, personalization choices, recovery authority, observation criteria, and improvement actions.

Conclusion

Participants take back a Fine-Dining Service Standards Playbook and Guest Experience Improvement Plan. The work product links guest reception, table controls, service pacing, personalization, and recovery to clear team responsibilities. It supports consistent dining-room execution, stronger handovers, and practical improvement across guest touchpoints.
