Foundation French for Everyday Communication Training Course

Ref: 2085_252789 Date: 7 – 11 February 2027 Location: Doha Fees: 5500 Euro

Overview

Foundation French for Everyday Communication Training Course is a one-week foundation course for adult beginners and professionals who leave with a French Starter Phrasebook and Practice Plan. Participants build beginner French pronunciation, core vocabulary, simple sentence patterns, listening, short conversations, and brief messages for everyday, travel, service, and workplace situations. The course is A1-informed but does not claim completion of a CEFR level or certification. Agile Leaders Training Center delivers this course in foundation French communication.

Who Should Attend

- Personnel responsible for basic interactions with French-speaking visitors or colleagues
- Personnel preparing for travel or temporary assignments in French-speaking settings
- Personnel supporting customer, reception, hospitality, or service conversations
- Adult beginners seeking a structured first step in French
- Personnel who need simple spoken and written French for routine situations

The course assumes no prior French study and leaves out full CEFR A1 completion, exam preparation, advanced grammar, translation, and specialist professional terminology.

Departments and Industries

The course supports departments and industries where basic French can assist everyday communication and service interactions.

- Customer service, reception, administration, and corporate services
- Travel, tourism, hospitality, aviation, and events
- Sales, international relations, and visitor support
- Education, healthcare, public services, and community organizations
- Engineering, logistics, energy, and project teams with francophone contacts

Learning Objectives

By the end of this course, participants will be able to:

FAQs

Who suits foundation French communication training, and what does it assume?

Adult beginners, travellers, service personnel, and professionals with francophone contacts suit the training. It assumes no previous French study and uses structured support for first interactions.

How does foundation French communication training differ from a complete A1 course?

Foundation French communication training introduces selected A1-informed language activities over one week, while a complete A1 pathway requires substantially more guided learning, practice, assessment, and coverage.

What French pronunciation should beginners practise first?

Beginners should practise high-frequency sound patterns, accent marks, common silent letters, word endings, rhythm, and the sounds needed for greetings, names, numbers, and essential phrases.

Which beginner French phrases help in everyday situations?

Useful phrases cover greetings, introductions, thanks, apologies, clarification, prices, time, directions, preferences, simple requests, and expressions for not understanding.

How can learners continue beginner French after the course?

Learners can continue through short daily listening, spaced vocabulary review, guided pronunciation, repeated sentence frames, brief conversations, simple messages, and regular checks against practical communication goals.

Conclusion

Participants take back a French Starter Phrasebook and Practice Plan. It combines pronunciation cues, core vocabulary, sentence frames, listening prompts, scenario scripts, brief-message models, and continued-practice priorities. The pack supports careful first interactions while giving learners a realistic route for developing beginner French beyond the course.
